Homework

It will really help your child to make excellent progress if you read nightly with them. We will change books frequently, in line with how often your child is reading. Children will be encouraged to change their books by themselves to develop their independence. In addition to this we also set Parents as Partners tasks. These will be a variety of fun and practical tasks that relate to the learning going on in school at that time. It provides the opportunity for your child to extend their knowledge and skills as well as keeping you up to date of what they have been or will be doing soon.
